

Publishing

Today you are going to begin producing your work in best. You need to think about all the things we have worked on this week. How will you position your writing? What images will you use? Will you alter your handwriting for your title?

Plot out roughly where you want everything to fit on your double page so that it has plenty of space and won't look too crowded.

It is important your page has the right feel so think carefully about how it should look. Once the writing is done then you may colour but we would prefer you not to use felt tips. Be careful to check your captions are not just labels.
