

Let's look back over the work we did last week.

Remind yourself what it is that we are writing about and in what style it is we are writing.

What is our purpose?

Saving the Rainforest - One Tree at a Time

Across the world our rainforests are in danger. Deforestation is a constant and never ending threat to the welfare of some of our most vulnerable animals and indigenous peoples. Farming, mining, trade and population growth are not good enough reasons to destroy the homes of many. Is this really fair? Is this really what anyone wants?

Point 1

Today, right now, farms are being built all over the rainforests of the world to provide meat and crops to consumers. These farms are being built over ancient woodland, over the homes of the native people and animals and forcing these fragile ecosystems to the edge. They are the single biggest danger to places like the Amazon

How much is gold worth? Really? A life? The lives of animals? What about iron? Or copper? Mining is crippling the woodlands of the rainforest. Although yes we do want or need these precious resources there must be a better way . . . .

Think carefully about your design. You need to be working over 2 pages and thinking about how you would want your information to look when you've added in graphics and pictures.
