

Read through your notes and your bullet points from the week so far. Please underline all of the character names that you have included.

Today we are going to be making character profiles of each child in the story.

You will use the original text, your notes and your summary to evaluate each child.

You will then select which character to become when you write the next stage of the story.

Fred - is a school boy who is afraid of flying and nervous around things he can not control. Fred is a helpful child who is very polite and considerate of others as shown by his concern for the pilot and his use of the word 'sir'.

Fred stared at the man – he was turning the same shade of grey as his moustache. 'Are you all right, sir?' he asked. 'Is there something I can do?'

Like a man-made magic wish, the aeroplane began to rise.

The boy sitting in the cockpit gripped his seat and held his breath as the plane climbed into the arms of the sky. Fred's jaw was set with concentration, and and almost deserted, just a strip of tarmac under the ferocious Brazilian sun. Fred's cousin had insisted that he wear his school uniform and cricket jumper, and now, inside the hot, airless cabin, he felt like he was being gently cooked inside his own skin. twitched, following the movements of the Please create a character profile for Fred, Con, Lila and Max. There are lots of things we know and some we can infer too from the behaviour of the children.

Use your notes and the original text. Each profile should be 4/5 sentences long and should refer to the text.

Once you have done that you need to select which a character you would like to take on the role of in the story. You will be writing in the first person from the perspective of the character and will be creating the events that are about to unfold.

I will be writing from the perspective of Fred because I feel like he will be the natural leader of the group therefore it will be easier for him to make decisions. Whilst, Con seems quite bossy I am not sure the other children would like that so I will choose Fred as I think he is friendly and kind.
