

Last night on New Street a terrible moaning was heard. Police attended the scene to find a painting that was boiling whilst floating in the night sky. Most people were on the street groaning about the noise. Both Mr Conway and Mrs Payne went zooming by wearing clothes that needed cleaning and soaking. I think New Street is needing and looking for some help!